

Bianca Pagel-Miller

My name is Bianca Pagel-Miller; I am Alaskan- grown, autistic, and an advocate in my community. You may have seen me around through my artwork or volunteering. I want to share my journey with autism and help educate others to bring people together and provide support, friendship, and hope, because everyone deserves to live their best life. In my 20 years, I have had to overcome many obstacles, but I've also gained confidence in myself while building a village that supports me in everything I set out to accomplish, allowing me to keep setting goals. I graduated high school at the top of my class, was in the National Honor Society for three years, graduated from the FBI Teen Academy, won several titles in pageantry, volunteer, and work a job; I am a local artist and much more. Autism is a big part of me, but it doesn't stop me.
